“There are no short-cuts to anyplace worth going” - Beverly Sills

Imagine you were gifted a map that charted your organization’s past, present and future growth – with the present as a big green dot on the map indicating: “you are here”.

The Nonprofit Lifecycles approach created by Susan Kenny Stevens is a framework that provides just that. A lifecycle is a series of developmental stages – organizations live through stages, just as humans do. In each stage there are common and predictable strengths and growing pains that are part of normal development.

A child puts weekly allowance money in a...
