I'm just shy of my 9th anniversary of joining Vantage Point. What a journey I've had so far – both personally and professionally. At the beginning of each year, our practice across the organization is for each of us to consider how to further our individual journeys through personal development goal-setting. It's a time for each team member to reflect on how we each want to invest in ourselves – and how can Vantage Point support us in doing so.

It took me longer than usual to determine my personal development goals this year. Perhaps it's naturally a challenging task for more 'seasoned'...
