Build essential knowledge on the legal responsibilities of your not-for-profit board.

As a board chair, understanding the legalities of not-for-profit governance is a critical part of your role. You lead a team of board members, develop and nurture a strong relationship with senior leadership, and are a catalyst for critical board discussions.

Over the next three board chair breakfasts, learn how the law impacts your board & organization – and how to ensure your board understands their legal roles & responsibilities. We will cover these topics from the unique lens of the board chair, and how to successfully integrate legal best practices.

This event is the second of a three-part series on legal responsibilities. Each event we will cover a specific topic with a legal expert who is ready to share their insights and expertise.

Topic: Employee Risk Management - How to prepare your organization

Join us for a presentation to learn how to guide your board through employment related liabilities. You'll come away with the fundamentals to protect your organization from liability and know how to manage risk when it comes to employees.

In this morning session, we will take you through the following key topics:

- Hiring employees and the importance of employment contracts
- Performance management of employees
- Harassment and discrimination in the workplace
- Terminations and how to manage them
